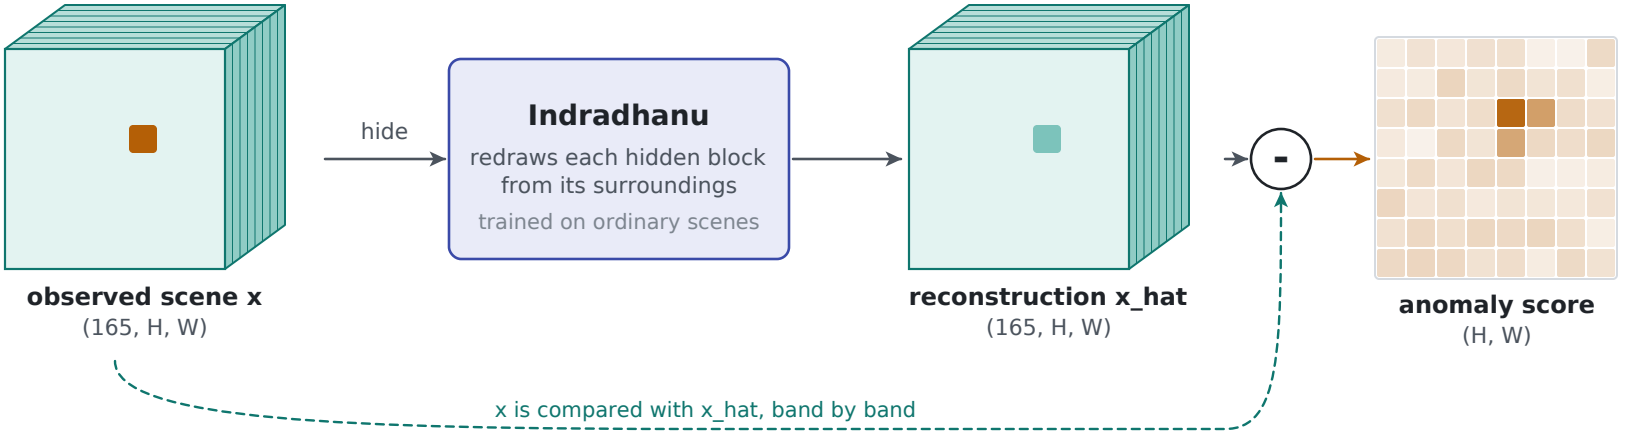
Where the redrawing is most wrong is where something unusual is.


The amber square marks an object the model has never seen; it paints the ordinary background instead.